

TEACHER

Name _____

APPRECIATION WEEK

READING CHALLENGE

We love teachers, and we know you do too! Let's celebrate our awesome teachers this May. Make your teachers proud and show them your appreciation by logging your reading and completing activities all month long!

READING LOG

Color in an apple for every 60 minutes that you read.

60m

120m

180m

240m

300m

360m

420m

480m

540m

600m

Did you know?

Teaching is one of the oldest professions! Confucius, a Chinese philosopher, was the first private teacher known in history, way back in the year 561BC.

TEACHER APPRECIATION WEEK

READING CHALLENGE

ACTIVITY IDEAS

Here are five awesome ways to celebrate your teachers this week and every week!

1. Get Creative

Make a card for your teacher, and write a note about what makes them special!

2. Ready, Set, Bloom

Your teacher helped you bloom this school year! Draw a picture of a flower in their honor.

3. Write down memories

Write down your favorite memories of your school year and what you love about your teacher.

4. Write a Poem

Write your teacher a short rhyming or free verse poem to express your appreciation.

5. Ask for a Recommendation

Ask your teacher what their favorite book is, or ask for a book recommendation from your school library.

An Apple a Day

Throughout human history, apples have been a symbol of knowledge and education. In Denmark and Sweden, baskets of apples were once given to teachers as a way to pay for education. In the U.S., apples were traditionally given to teachers by families who were providing them with food and housing. Today, we give teachers apples as a sign of appreciation!

